

ABSTRACT

- A method to additionally test a patient's specimen using an analyzer some period of time after initial tests on an aliquot of the patient's specimen are completed by retaining the
- 5 aliquot of the patient's specimen within the analyzer or by retaining another aliquot of the patient's specimen within the analyzer for a period of time.

